		This is a wee reminder to sign up for our award winning, online competition for S5/S6 pupils, CityZen, which goes live on Wednesday this week (21st August). It's a great opportunity for any pupils who may be thinking about applying for an engineering or built environment course or apprenticeship. The pupils work in teams of up to four, on a series of challenges to build the civil engineering infrastructure in a virtual city and are supported throughout by an ICE STEM Ambassador. This year we've also added a new shorter competition for S3/S4 pupils, the ICE CityZen Pollution Control Challenge. It's a 1 to 2 hour long activity which can fit easily into class or extra-curricular time, featuring a unique civil engineering game based on CityZen.	study, scholarships and generally get the real story of life as an engineer today. We're anticipating doing these sessions in September/October but can be flexible with dates - it may be that your schools want to do this as part of Maths Week Scotland (23rd to 29th September) or Scottish Careers Week (11th to 15th November) or during a PSE class or assembly.
