01/06/26	Arc Scotland 	ARC Scotland has produced the seven Principles of Good Transitions which are evidence-based and written into Scottish Government policy. They aim to improve the experiences of young people with additional needs aged 14-25. Principles into Practice was developed to provide a practical framework and help those with strategic responsibility to design and oversee approaches which will improve transitions in their local authority area. The framework was trialled in 10 local authority areas. During this trial, a need was identified for all groups – young people, parents and carers, and professionals - to understand their entitlements and responsibilities for a smooth transition to adulthood. Compass was then developed to help professionals, young people and their families navigate this time with the right information and resources at their fingertips	Principles into Practice works with Compass to gather data and evaluate the impact of the Principles of Good Transitions in different local authority areas. It will enable you to collectively meet legislative and regulatory requirements while supporting the implementation of a range of Scottish Government policy areas including: the National Transitions to Adulthood Strategy for Young Disabled People, Getting it Right for Every Child, Getting it Right for Everyone, Additional Support for Learning, and the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child.	 Partner Information - Principles into Practice You can visit our Knowledge Hub to read more about these key areas of legislation and policy.
